Part of the success is due to the introduction of the Fieldbook I1 end of 2014, which was well received by many customers in test and pilot phases. The 10-inch full HD tablet with Core-i5 CPU and Windows 8.1 is a reliable partner for use in the most adverse environmental conditions. It meets the high requirements of the IP65 and MIL-STD810G standards.

Furthermore, several lots of rugged tablet PCs have been delivered to industrial and military customers, such as Thales and Airbus Defense.

In addition, another batch of the HCN Navigator tablets was delivered to Hotel Communication Network beginning of the year.

2015 Perspectives

The group is confident about the evolution of its turnover for the year 2015.

The conclusion of a contract with a major IT distributor for the coverage of the entire South American region is imminent. Concrete projects with several hundred rugged tablets for this region are in the negotiation phase.

In Europe, several projects in various industry sectors are being negotiated and promising talks about future projects in the Middle East are also underway.

"Thanks to the increase and diversification of our offer, we managed to penetrate markets well beyond those of the defense, which nonetheless remains an important target for our products, that fit for industry and military applications.", says Jacques Gebran, CEO of the group.
